Obituary of JOHN WHITAKER of Deposit,New York. Died August 1-1868.

" Respect for the good and reverance for the aged make it a sad, but not unpleasant duty to recall reminiscences of one departed who was for more than eighty years a of this place and who was known and respected by an extensive acquaintance all over the county, and particularly by all of the old settelrs of this region. We refer to Deacon John Whitaker, who died on the first day of August 1868, aged 95 years.

He was born in Middletown, New York(Orange County) August 14,1773, three years before the Declaration of Independence. His Grandfather,Richard Whitaker, with two brothers emigrated from London to America before the French & Indian War.

One of the brothers settled in Connecticut, one in New Jersey and Richard in Orange(County New York)with his wife who was a native of Wales. Richard had three sons ,John,Squire and Benjamin.

After the Revolutionary War John went to Ohio and died there in 1786, Squire married Elizabeth Ogden, a native of the eastern part of New Jersey belonging to a distinguished and wealthy family.

They had three sons,John(the subject of this article) Benjamin and Jesse all now deceased.

In the spring of 1777 when John was about four years old his father attracted by the wonderful fertility and beauty of Wyoming Valley removed thither with his family and purchased a farm on the east side of the Susquehanna River above Forty-Forty. This was the agriculture Eldorado of the West. With a farm well stocked they looked forward the next year the prospects of the family were bright and they looked forward to a life of comfort and enjoyment. On the outskirts of civilization they were exposed in the war then fiercely waging to dangers from Tories and savages but they did not realize it(tho warned by Bo'on Parks who travelled thru the wilderness from Delaware for that purpose), till on the second day of July 1778 the invasion of Col. John Butler with his Tories and Indians was announced by the murder of nine men in the upper part of the Valley and the capture of Fort Winter.

The inhabitants fled hastily to the nearest fort with their families. Only three hundred men could be mustered to meet the impending . as most of the able bodied men were with Washington. The next day at 4 P.M. began the fatal battle which in a few hours terminated with the horrible massacre of one hundred and sixty out of three hundred who in the morning went out confident of victory.

Squire Whitaker and his family with many others took shelter in Fort Jennings which he commmanded. On the fourth day of July , Forty-Forty having Capitulated and terms of offered which had been granted to Forty-Forty to wit, on surrndering and giving up their arms their lives and property were spared. These terms were accepted by Squire Whitaker.

The faces of the prisoners were then blackened by the Indians with certain marks to distinguish themand preserve them when met by others. They were allowed to return to their farms.

The subject of this notice informed the writer that he distinctly remembered the scenes and that he saw one Indian come to the gate of the fort with fire guns which he thru down and tho but five years old his face was painted with the others and that they remained os till they got back to Orange County with the others.

Col. John Butlerhaving been summoned to go to Cherry Valley to aid Brant at his request departed in a few days with the Tories and Mohawks to rob, pillage and murder and burn.

Whitakers horses were taken from the field, neighbors houses were in flames and without a moments delay they hastily siezed such valuables as they could carry, bid farewell to their pleasant homes forever and fled into the wilderness for Stroudsburgh

The mother made a pack for John of a Calamink dress and put such things as he could carry taking one for herself and surmounted hers by a large pewter basin in which she placed her son Benjamin in Indian fashion.

These with other packs by father and sisters were carried more than sixty miles on foot, the party subsisting most of the way on berries. At Strousburgh they expected to find a depot of government stores but were disappointed and pushed on to the Delaware.

Near Walspack ,famished and faint they applied ata house of a Tory names Van Camp for food but were rudely repulsed by the wife with curses,calling them traitors and rebels and expressed a wish to God that they be killed with the rest at Wyoming. At the next house, owned by a brother of the Tory was a Whig, they were met by the wife with sympathy, with tears streaming down her cheeks she brought out a great load of bread which she quickly cut up and buttered, giving them all they needed and telling t them to eat all of the cherries they wanted. When rested and refreshed they trudged on and at Walpack Bend to their great joy met Benjamin and John,Squire's brothers, and a neighbor with a wagon and team of horses coming from Orange County after them hoping they had escaped from the massacre, news of which had come from fugitives.

On arriving at their old home Mr Whitaker hired a farm and supported his family till after the close of the War and in 1786 removed with his family to Shehocking Point, now Hancock. The next year in April he removed to the Cook house(near Deposit) and the same day his daughter Elizabeth was married in a rude shanty with barkcover to Conrad Edick by Elder Phineas Howe a Baptist missionary from Connecticut.

John now fourteen remained with his father aiding in supporting the familytill 1793 when 20 years old he married Katherine Weaver from Mohawk Valley.

The only families then living nearer than Cannonville were John Hulce,Phillip Pine, Nathan Dean, Oliver Hale and William McClure, many of whose numerous descendants still reamin here.

John first began to keep house at Hales Eddy but after a few years returned to the homestead where he remained through life.

He had five sons and six daughters nearly all are still living. The sons were Squire, John O, Stephen F. and Richard. The daughters were Polly who married [illegible] Bemajah Jayne, Elizabeth married John Garlow, Zilpha married Charles Metteer, Katherine married Gilbert Travis, Phebe married George Metteer and Margaret married Erastur Carr.

John Whitaker was a man of great physical strength and stature, seven feet high and a compact well proportioned frame. Few men could match him when young in feats of wrestling or lifting; as evidence of the latter the writer's father informed him that he saw Mr Whitaker take up and shoulder a barrel of pork standing in a canoe and carry it up the bank.

He encountered the usual struggles of the early pioneers but overcoming every obstacle by industry and temperance and frugality, brought up his large family respectably and accumulated a handsome property.

Toward the last of his life and after the death of his excellent wife he lived with his son Stephen who with his wife gave him the most filian and tenedr care.

As a citizen he was respected and honored. About 1821 he made a public profession of religion and was baptized by the Rev, John Smitzer and united with the Baptist Church at Deposit. In March 1831 was elected a deacon which office he held till his decease.

He was a liberal generous hearted man. When the Prestbyterian Church was first built in Deposit in 1818 he contributed several hundred dollars toward its erection tho not a member of that society and afterwards in 1826 when the first Baptist Church was completed presented three hundred dollars towards a bell that cost three hundred and fifty dollars., to be placed in the steeple, the first church bell veer sounded in the Valley. The Baptist society had his initials cut in the bell in grateful memory

When the Church was burned on July 3,1852 (the 74th anniversary of the massacre of Wyoming) the bell was melted.

Long past the usual human life he enjoyed excellent health and though enfeehled by age retained his mental faculties and memory till a few days before his death when after eating a heartybreakfast and dinner at 2 P.M. he was prostrated suddenly by partial paralysis, the premonitory to his final dissolution. He was prepared to go and the lines from Blair better express than we can his state of mind and triumphant death.

His funeral was largely attended by his numerous descendants and relatives and the publicgenerally . It was held at the Baptist Church in Deposit on the 3d day of August at 11 A.M. and the services were conducted by the Rev. J.N.Adams a pastor assisted by Rev. C.N. DeLong of the Prestbyterian Church and Rev H. Camp of the Methodist Church, superintendant of the Orphans Union Home and School.

The sermon by Mr Adams was from 2d Timothy 4;6,8" For I am now ready to be offered etc" He was buried in the Pine Grove Cemetery and so far as the writer knows was the last survivor of the Wyoming Massacre."

WHITAKER BIBLE RECORDS
Contributed, with explanatory notes, by Louise Hasbrouck Zimm, Woodstock, N.Y.

The following records are copied from a family Bible, printed in Dordrecht, Holland, in 1714, now owned by Miss Lucy Sharp of Kingston, N.Y., a descendant of John Whitaker. The bracketed numbers do not appear on the Bible but are inserted for convenience of notation.

(Back Fly Leaf)
(1) "John Whitaker was born the 16 day of May on a Thursday about sevent of Clog in the afternoon ano Domino 1706. I and my wife was Joyned marige the 9 day of July ano Domine 1737.
(2) my wife Catharina Whitaker was born the 8 Day of March ano Domino 1708

NOTES; see bracketed numbers in text.
(1) John Whitaker[2], born 16 May 1706, according to the Bible, was evidently the son of Edward[2] Whitaker and his wife Hilletje Burhans, listed as No. 43 in the Burhans genealogy, which says "no record of his birth" (p. 19). His baptism is not recorded in the Kingston Dutch Church Register (Hoes).
(2) The above John[3] Whitaker married Catharina Hoogteling, daughter of Phillipus and Jannetje (Rosa) Hoogteling. She was baptised in the Kingston Cjirch 20 June 1708 (Hoes).

HISTORY AND GENEALOGY OF A BRANCH OF THE WEAVER FAMILY
By Lucius E. Weaver
Rochester, New York,
1928

P. 94:

VII. Nicholas,[6] The dates of his birth and death are not known. He may have married and had a family, but no descendants have been found. Aug. 31, 1774, he executed a deed to John Hudson, his brother-in-law, of Newport, of one quarter of the two small lots at Easton's Point, numbers 30 and 37 and of the house on them which had been left by his father.

He served in the Revolution as gunner's yeoman on the sloop Providence, one of the ships in the John Paul Jones fleet of which the flagship was the Alfred, and was reported in Boston in December, 1776, as entitled to a share in two prizes, the Mellish and the Active. The names of the officers and men entitled to share in the prize money were recorded in Massachusetts.

At the taking of the Military Census of Rhode Island in 1777 he was in Providence, but gave his residence as Newport.

Probably it was he who was Second Lieutenant on the privateer "Eagle" which was fitted out in Boston in 1778.

P. 103:

33. BENJAMIN[5] WEAVER, (Benjamin,[4] (14) Thomas,[3] Clement,[2] Clement[1]) was born in Newport Jan. 18, 1717; he died in West Greenwich in November, 1796. About 1750 he married Deborah Vaughn, daughter of Christopher and Deborah (Nichols) Vaugh; she was born in East Greenwich, July 13, 1719, and died in West Greenwich, Feb. 1, 1792. * * *

Children:

79- I Christopher
II Deborah
80- III Joseph
81- IV Jonathan
82- V Benjamin
83- VI Jesse
VII Mary
VIII Coggeshall
84- IX Nicholas
85 X Thomas

P. 143:

84. NICHOLAS[6] WEAVER, (Benjamin,[5] (33) Benjamin,[4] Thomas,[3] Clement,[2] Clement[1]) was born in West Greenwich, R. I., during the last half of 1758 or the first half of 1759. He died in Shaftsbury, Vt., July 27, 1805, in his 47th year and was buried in the cemetery near the center of that town.

He was named Nichols for his grandmother Vaughn whose maiden name was Nichols. His descendants do not know when or why it was changed, but it is written Nicholas in all civil and military records andin the family letters written by him and to him.

He married Lillis Matteson, b. May 6, 1760, in West Greenwich, daughter of Nathan and Freelove (Bowen) Matteson of that town. She died in 1840 in Shaftsbury, Vt. One of her descendants has a sampler which she made in 1776 in which she worked the alphabet and these lines:

"Lillis Matteson is my name
And English is my nation.
West Greenwich is my dwelling place,
And Christ is my salvation."

Nicholas Weaver served in the Revolution as a private in Capt. Samuel Wall's Company, Col. John Waterman's regiment. General Cornell's brigade, stationed at Tiverton, and signed a receipt to Capt. Wall, Coventry, March 2, 1778 (R. I. Rev. Records).

After removing to Vermont, he also servedin Capt. Peleg Matteson's Shaftsbury Company in 1781. (Vermont Rev. Rolls, p. 513)

Oct. 5, 1805, his widow, Lillis Weaver, was appointed administratrix of his estate. Various itemsin the settlement of the estate show that she was living Feb. 16, 1822, his widow, and that his son, Benjamin D. Weaver, lived in Arlington, Vt., Canton in Shaftsbury, and Nathan in Rodman, Jefferson Co., N. Y.

P. 371:

292. NICHOLAS[8] WEAVER, (Nathan,[7] (155) Nicholas,[6] Benjamin,[5] Benjamin,[4] Thomas,[3] Clement,[2] Clement[1]) was born Aug. 5, 1816, at Shaftsbury, Vt., and died Dec. 10, 1893, at Delano, Calif. He was a farmer in Wyoming Co., N.Y. He went to Minnesota in 1867, and to California in 1887.

He married ~~(1)~~ Eliza Pratt; m. (2) Hannah Capwell, b. Oct. 12, 1819; d. June 6, 1888.

John Ogden, the Pilgrim, and his descendants 1610-1906
Compiled by William Ogden Wheeler
Printed for private circulation by J. B. Lippincott Company, Philadelphia 1907

A strange thing about the above is found on page 260. William Ludlow Ogden has a son Squire Ogden, b. Apr. 6, 1784; d. Oct. 15, 1807; m. Elizabeth Sanford. On page 376 this Squire Ogden is a farmer and his wife's people lived near Bellville, N.J., where he is buried. He had one child, Catharine Ogden, b. _____; m. Ebenezer Sanford.

These names are so confusing, and yet it does not straighten out the family.

I have worked every reference and everything that I could to find this, but to no avail.

Wishing you the best of everything, I am
